

The Bluff Walk

Riverview Park, Shelton

Riverview Park is Shelton's oldest park. Features include the Derby-Shelton Dam overlook, the Constitution Oak (descendent of the Charter Oak), and Fort Hill, where there is a historic marker.

Trail is blazed white and begins behind the playground. In some places it is an actual pathway through the riverbank woods that dates many decades, when people lined the cleared riverbank to watch rowing races. In a few locations you need to look for white blazes to navigate past the scenic overlook, basketball court, and ballfields.
